The things which are booming the most just now are the rivers.

A base ball player is worth more than an inter-state commissioner by $300 a year.

St. Louis has a man who is one hundred years old. He matches the enterprise of the city.

John A. Roche, the republican candidate for mayor of Chicago, used to work in the Allaire (New York) iron works. But that is not the kind of a man the anarchist want. They want a man who works with his mouth and not with his hands, and who can guzzle beer.

By actual count there are twenty four railroad corporations scattered throughout the various portions of the country which have bought and paid a cash installment of from $500,000 to $1,000,000 for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and yet the latter continues to be run as an independent corporation.

There is a likelihood that the state debt of Virginia will be repudiated. Senator Rhea has introduced a resolution for the submission to the people of a constitutional amendment providing that if the foreign bondholders do not exchange their holdings for Riddleberger three within a given date then the principal of the debt shall be repudiated. A majority of both branches of the legislature favor the proposition and it is considered doubtful if Governor Lee will veto it. The foreign bondholders are alarmed at the situation.

This item will interest a good many people in this state: A. D. Wyman, formerly United States treasurer, is president of a bank in Omaha, where S. P. Rounds, ex-public printer, is publishing a paper. Rounds was "printer's devil" in the office of Mr. Wyman's father, who was an editor and publisher in Madison, Wis., and the two boys learned the printer's trade together. Rounds was engaged in business for some time in Chicago, and when he arrived in Washington as public printer Mr. Wyman was there as treasurer. By a singular coincidence they have come together again in Omaha.

The inter-state commerce commission should have had at least one expert and experienced man on it. But perhaps the salary was not sufficient to procure such a man. —Chicago Journal.

Of course the salary is not sufficient. A railway officer in any sort of responsible position can demand more than $7,500 a year and have less perplexing labor than he would have on the railway commission. Railway superintendents and managers receive all the way from $10,000 to $40,000 a year, and it stands to reason that they will not accept a minor position for $7,500. We know of one freight conductor who receives $18,000 and he does not belong to a trunk line or a large system either. Seven thousand five hundred can not buy first class railway brains.

Joseph Ignace Kraszewski, Polish poet, romancer, critic and journalist, has died well along in his 75th year. His patriotic conduct of the Polish Gazette of Warsaw in 1860-63 compelled him to leave his native land after the unsuccessful revolutionary attempt of the latter year, and he took up his residence in Dresden where he wrote constantly until within a few years. His works reach the enormous mass of 463 volumes, covering plays, poems, history, criticisms and fiction. Not much of his writing has been translated into other languages, except the German, and scarcely anything save a few tales has found its way into eastern Europe. In October, 1879, the 50th anniversary of his entrance on literary life, was celebrated at Cracow with extraordinary ceremonies, and the Austrian emperor made him a commander of the order of Franz-Josef.

A piece of post mortem generosity: The California legislature has recently made an appropriation of $5,000 for a monument to James W. Marshall, the discoverer of gold. The fact is the more interesting inasmuch as the state of California allowed the aforesaid James W. Marshall to die in abject penury, and as many assert from positive starvation. Nor was this niggardliness an effect of ignorance, for at every session of the legislature the press called attention to the claims Marshall had upon California, and urged the grant to him of a pension in some degree worthy of his services. It may indeed be said, though not in extenuation of this neglect, that California is only the latent in a long list of communities that have ignored their benefactors while they lived and then attempted a pagan kind of atonement in erecting pretentious monuments over their graves.

The Milwaukee Railroad Co. is preparing to execute one of the greatest feats in railway construction that has ever been attempted in this country, viz.: The building of 670 miles of road from Heleus, Montana, to the western end of the road. The extraordinary step is to be taken because of the heavy freight rate on steel rails imposed by the Northern Pacific Company. The work must be completed on or before November 23d next, and in order that this may be accomplished, the services of more than 5,000 grades will be required, and in laying the steel the contractors propose to use a steam track laying machine, and employ three separate crews of men, who will work eight hours each day, using electric light at night, which, it is expected, will enable them to complete five miles per day. In addition to graders and track layers, large crews of men will be required to build bridges, culverts, water tanks, stations, telegraph lines, etc.

The republican members of the New York legislature are entitled to the thanks of that portion of the country that believes in practical temperance work. The high license bill has passed the assembly by a vote of 70 to 55, all the affirmative votes being republican and all but four of the 55 negative votes being democratic. The bill provides for a graded tax of from $100 to $1,000. The prohibitions and the liquor law stand on one common platform in the effort to defeat this bill which sought to regulate as best it could, the liquor traffic in New York. The prohibitionists of New York may slander and libel the republicans for this righteous act, but "never have the heart and brain of any community been more moved than over the high license bill, which is demanded in the name of christian civilization as well as in the plainer interests of good government and the well-being of the masses."

The International Record, a journal devoted to charities and corrections, and edited by that theoretical reformer, Frederick H. Wines, prints in the March number an article on legislative appropriations for the support of charitable and penal institutions in which it says that "the passage of the appropriation bills through the legislature is ordinarily a troublesome and vexatious business." That they largely depend too much on politics, and that the bills create political squabbles.

Very likely that is the case in Illinois. Mr. Wines' own state, and if this be true no one has done more to bring about that condition of things than Wines himself. That they largely depend too much on politics, and that the bills create political squabbles.

Meantime two or three of the twelve men in the upper story could be seen apparently groping about in the smoke and darkness, but the majority had disappeared. All were in one room, but it was impossible to reach them from the street. Braves and maid girls went up from the half-crashed crowd. "Jump or die" was the last note of warning as the building fell, carrying with it into the mass of coal and flames the twelve men.

These unfortunate were: Max Privaldi, a recent cancer, from New York; John Sutton, Harry Sean, John Lyons, Simon Rizzo, an Italian who formerly worked at Hoboken; Thomas Braza, John Braza, William Williams, James Garvey, John McNamee Ryan, and an unknown.

It was less than a year ago from the time the first alarm was given until the building was in ruins and twelve lives had been sacrificed. Two hours later the charred bones were found in a heap in the cellar and were gathered into one box. Over this gory pile the coroner held an inquest, exonerating everybody from blame. At noon the funeral was held and was attended by 500 of the 1,500 persons that make up the town.

Mrs. Miller, who is badly but not fatally injured, says she was awakened by a stifling smoke and seemed hardly able to move. By extraordinary exertion she overcame the stupor and aroused her husband. They called loudly to the neighbors and escaped by the back door. Mrs. Miller had been here of the day when buried beyond the limits facts already given. They were laborers, miners and had no friends in this region who had known them long. Bessinger is one of the roughest of the Michigan mining towns, and is the scene of mighty brawl and occasionally a murder, but Wednesday night every man in town was sober and every saloon closed. Several of the rescued men are badly burned and may die.

Found the Broken Rail.

BOSTON, March 24.—A party of sealmen, including Thomas Dano, engineer, representing the railroad commissioners; Superintendent Nelson, Master Mechanic Richards, and other officials of the Providence railroad, visited the scene of the Bissell bridge wreck Wednesday forenoon, and after some overhauling of the debris before the detached car roof, discovered the small end of the broken sixty-foot rail that Mr. Richards in his evidence Tuesday said should be there if not carried away. The longer and before had been preserved. Whether or not the expert has determined that the master mechanic's theory has been fully borne out, that the rail was broken by the locomotive when two-thirds the way over the bridge, has not yet been made known.

Mr. A. M. Thomson, formerly of the Gazette, has written an article for the Milwaukee Sentinel, on the late D. W. Marx, in which he says: The death of the Hon. D. W. Marx will recall to the minds of the old settlers of Wisconsin a distinguished group of democratic politicians, of which the deceased was always a conspicuous figure, who had much to do in organizing the state and putting the wheels of the local government in successful operation. They were all pioneers, and settled here while Wisconsin was a frontier territory. Many of them were members of the two constitutional conventions, and nearly all of them were members of the territorial and state legislatures. They founded the state formed the constitution; established its public institutions; charted its railroads; passed many of its laws, and did much to advance the material and moral progress of the people. Among Mr. Marx's prominent contemporaries were Saterlee Clark, Nelson Dewey, Henry Dodge, William A. Barstow, George B. Smith, Alexander T. Gray, E. G. Ryan, E. W. Whitney, A. Bryant Stetson, Moses M. Strong, Isaac Wood, James H. Earhart, Harrison C. Hobart, Henry L. Farmer, D. A. J. Upshur, Benjamin Furgason, Charles D. Robinson, Levi Hubbell, Arthur Moirthur, Byron Kilbourn, F. W. Horn, J. A. Noonan, Charles H. Larkins, and many others whose names will readily suggest themselves to the reader. These men and their associates were the dominating influence in the democratic party for years, and most of them adhered to it during the late rebellion. It is said that no democratic state convention was considered binding upon the rank and file of the democratic party if Moses M. Strong was not chairmen, Sat. Clark chairman of the committee on credentials and E. G. Ryan the chairman of the committee on resolutions. I think the record will show that Mr. Clark was a delegate to every convention of his party till the time of his death. These men held a firm grip on the politics of Wisconsin from the time its territorial organization was effected until the great anti-slavery movement had concentrated an overwhelming public sentiment in the north against the party which had always been represented in congress by the slaveholding oligarchy. It was not until the democratic party of the state attempted to elect William A. Barstow by frauds, the most ubiquitous and transparent, that the people rose up in judgment against it.

Mr. Marx was elected thirteen times to the legislature, having been elected in 1848, 1852, 1867, 1868, 1870, 1871, 1872 and 1882, and to the state senate for the years 1853, 1859, 1860 and 1861.

Advice to Merchants.

Mr. Winslow's Soothing Water.

PAINTER, PA., March 24.—The storm of Tuesday night was the worst of the season.

Telephone wires were down in every direction, trains were running with out orders on several roads, and many train escapes from collision are reported.

Wednesday afternoon word was received that three passenger trains were snowbound on the Pocahontas mountain, and that the snow is now five feet deep. Rescuing crews have been sent out. Telegraphic communication will not be fully established on the Delaware & Lackawanna road before the end of this week.

An Explosion Kills Seventy People.

LONDON, March 24.—A dispute from Sydney, in the south of Wales, says that an explosion occurred in the Bulli colliery near

Sydney, Wednesday, killing seventy persons and injuring many more.

TWELVE MEN ROASTED.

A SUDDEN FIRE IN A WOODEN BOARDING HOUSE

Results in a Horror Equal to the Buffalo Holocaust—Remains of the Victims All Buried in the Same Box—Narrative Escape of the Other Inmates—Terrible Mine Disaster in Wales.

BUSSEMER, Mich., March 24.—At 4 o'clock Wednesday morning Mr. Frank Miller, his night-dress on fire and her hair streaming behind her, burst from the boarding house kept by her husband and, screaming with fear and pain, ran to throw herself into a small stream near the house. An instant later the house, a two-story, flimsy structure of wood, was enveloped in flames. Immediately following, Mr. Miller came out his husband and two servant girls, all in their night clothes and screaming in terror and excitement. The flames gathered force with astonishing rapidity, and by the time the neighbors, attracted by the cries of those who had escaped, had reached the place it seemed impossible that any of those in the blazing building could be saved. Mr. Miller was just about to make a desperate effort to reach the imprisoned boarders when one man appeared at an upper window, forced it open and leaped to the ground. He was followed by twelve others, most of whom writhed on the burning ground with broken limbs or agonizing burns until they were removed to places of safety.

This had taken place so rapidly that Mr. Miller had just time to return. She screamed that her children were in the burning building and dashed into the house, followed by her husband. It was thought that they had gone to certain death, but in a moment they reappeared with their two children. The little ones were almost suffocated with smoke, but had not sustained other injury, and both soon revived.

Meantime two or three of the twelve men still in the upper story could be seen apparently groping about in the smoke and darkness, but the majority had disappeared. All were in one room, but it was impossible to reach them from the street. Braves and maid girls went up from the half-crashed crowd. "Jump or die" was the last note of warning as the building fell, carrying with it into the mass of coal and flames the twelve men.

GENERAL APPROVAL OF THE NATIONAL RAILWAY REGULATORS.

Gould and Others Declare Themselves Please—A Lot of Work Cut Out for the Commission—The B. & O. Railway Deal Undoubtedly a Fact, but the Dealers Keep Mum—Invaluable Notes.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 24.—The personnel of two interstate commission was the chief topic of conversation here Wednesday, and as a general thing the composition of the commission seems to give satisfaction. The high character, competence and special fitness of the five gentlemen for the work before them is generally admitted, and considered ample compensation for the long delay in appointing them, and the presidents is freely credited with having brought one of the most difficult tasks he has yet encountered to a very gratifying and successful conclusion.

The organization of the commission is the next thing looked for. The commissions of the members have been signed by the president and ready to be sent to them, and it is expected they will meet in Washington in a few days and organize and get ready for the delicate and difficult duties before them, which will begin on the 5th of next month, the date on which the inter-state commerce law goes into effect. Four of the commissioners are at their homes, and will require some time to close up their present business affairs. Col. Morrison, who is in Washington, desires to return to his home and take up his personal business, and after the signing of the contracts of the commissioners is getting together and organizing is not as serious as the delay which is feared will grow out of the selection of quarters and clerks, and the performance of a vast amount of correspondence before the commission can take intelligent action on any of the problems that are sure to be thrust upon it. The gravest and most fundamental questions have arisen under the new law, and upon these it is of the utmost importance that the commission should clearly define its position before proceeding with its work. Two members of the commission, at least, have probably as yet given very little attention to these questions.

The commissioners are of the most radical character. In the first place, it is disputed whether the law applies to shipments made from one point to another within a state or only to those from one state to another. The construction of the clause "under like circumstances and conditions," the clause in reference to long and short hauls and other phrases used in the act, and provisions made by it, are so variously construed by constitutional lawyers that one construction would reduce the effects of the new law to the most unimportant character, while another would lead to a complete reversal of commercial conditions and transportation facilities, and affect every branch of trade and every interest throughout the United States.

While it is generally believed that the commission is so constituted as to secure conservative rulings on these questions, it is conceded that many points of vast importance are in doubt. The bill appropriates $100,000 to pay all the expenses of the commission for the first year of its existence, while other expenses incidental to it are to be met out of other appropriations for the interior department and the courts. The salaries of two commissioners at $7,500 each and of the secretary at $4,500, and other stipulated expenses, less than $1,000 per month for assistance, clerical services, etc. This represents a large clerical and official force to be appointed in such manner, as rates and for such duties as the commission sees fit, but subject, in every case to the approval of the secretary of the interior. A large and important bureau will undoubtedly be organized.

Information has been received that there is no communication, queries, complaints, etc., are ready to pour in upon the commission whenever it is ready to receive them. A gentleman well qualified, it is said, recently told the president that a houseful of such documents was ready for mailing us soon to the commission organized.

Sen. Edmunds, in an interview

Wednesday, spoke highly of Mr. Walker, the Vermont member of the commission, whom he said, he knew thoroughly. Mr. Walker, he said, had considerable experience as a state legislator in dealing with railroad questions. He was a man of extraordinary ability, a fine scholar, a learned literatus, a vigorous, eloquent and honest "walk the way through" and a strong man in every respect. When questioned about the report that Mr. Walker was appointed upon Mr. Edmunds' recommendation, the Vermont senator replied: "I don't recommend anybody. I sometimes give testimony to the fitness of people for public duty, but I don't recommend."

Opinions of RAILWAY MEN.

All Well Pleased with the Personnel of the Commission.

New York, March 24.—A reporter of the United Press visited several of the leading railroad men of this city Wednesday and obtained their views in regard to the inter-state commerce commission as selected by President Cleveland. Mr. Jay Gould said: "I only know Judge Cooley and Mr. Schoolman, both of whom have been appointed. I believe in them, and will do whatever I can to help them get along."

An Indianian Appointed.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 24.—The secretaries of the treasury has appointed Thomas B. Bushkirk, of Indiana, an interim revenue agent.

Two Millions 7/8d Bonds Wanted.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 24.—The bonds included in a call issued Wednesday and which matures May 1, are as follows: $30, original numbers 17 to 29, both inclusive; $18, original numbers 157 to 351, both inclusive; $740, original numbers 67 to 145, both inclusive; $10,000, original numbers 707 to 1,221, both inclusive, and original numbers 23,778 to 29,197, both inclusive; $10,000, original numbers 1,012 to 2,888, both inclusive; total, $10,000. The bonds are 3 per cent.

Commissioned by the President.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 24.—The president Wednesday commissioned James P. Tuckor to be United States marshal for southern Florida; Samuel L. Bicicelli, United States marshal for the district of Rhode Island; Emery B. Sollars, district attorney for Indiana; Thomas Haynes, district attorney for Nebraska; and J. Marion Barlow, district attorney for southern California.

Senate to Meet.

"Do you object to the appointment of so many lawyers?" asked the reporter.

"Certainly not. I have perused that bill about a dozen times and have not been able to grasp its meaning. Lawyers are just the men for the place."

Chairman M. D. Popow, president of the Vanderbilt roads, said of course the president's choice is admirable. Judge Cooley, I believe, is an excellent one. Mr. Schoolman is also a good choice. Mr. Edmunds, I believe, is an honest man and will doubtless do his duty."

You are feeling depressed, your appetite is poor, you are bothered with headache, you are fidgety, nervous, and generally out of sorts, and want to brace up. Brace up, but not with stimulants, spring medicines, or bitters, which have for their basis very cheap, bad whisky, and which stimulate you for an hour, and then leave you in worse condition than before. What you want is an alternative that will purify your blood, start healthy action of liver and kidneys, restore your vitality, and give renewed health and strength. Such a medicine you will find in Electric Bitters, and only 50 cents a bottle at Frank Sherer & Co.'s drug store.

O. F. Gray, M. D., White Hill, Ind.

Pool Commission Fink also indorses Judge Cooley, and says that the trust line now will continue under the new law; and that there is no reason why the western associations should not be kept together as it will be easy enough to strike out all the old methods which were antagonistic to the law.

BOSTON, March 24.—Charles Francis Adams, president of the Union Pacific Railroad company, said Wednesday: "Judge Cooley and Mr. Morrison are men of undoubted capacity, and I consider them excellent appointments. No doubt the others are also good, as the president has used such care in selecting them."

THE DEAL IS A FACT,

But the Facts of the Deal Are Not Public Property Yet.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 24.—That the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company has been merged with the interests represented by Messrs. Henry S. Ives and George H. Stayner, of New York, is no longer a matter of mere speculation, but it is an assured fact. The city of Baltimore being a holder of Baltimore & Ohio stock to the extent of 32,000 shares and the fact that the interests of Baltimore city and the Baltimore & Ohio railroad are, in many respects, identical, led Mayor Hodges to call upon Mr. Robert Garrett Wednesday and learn, if possible, the true status of affairs with regard to any new arrangement into which the child of the state may be forced. His successor is to be appointed by the Board of Trade, and the new president is to be chosen by the stockholders.

President Garrett informed Mayor Hodges that the "deal" was an accomplished fact, and that he was waiting until certain incidental details were arranged before preparing a statement for publication. The nature of the deal, or with what road or roads, company or syndicate the arrangements are made Mr. Garrett did not designate, but he assured the mayor that as interests of the city of Baltimore would in the resultant merger be separated. The headquarters of the amalgamated properties are to be located in Baltimore.

Mr. Henry S. Ives and Mr. George H. Stayner, both of New York, who are supposed to be acting at the instance of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton and the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad companies, arrived in Baltimore about noon Wednesday. At 2:30 p. m. they met Mr. Garrett at the Baltimore & Ohio central building, with whom they held a conference which lasted until 4 p. m.

Mr. Ives was soon later but refused to give any information, and Mr. Garrett, when the reporter began a question, interrupted with:

"All I know what you would ask, but I haven't got a word to say about railroad road. It will always afford me pleasure to give the United Press anything that I can, but I can say nothing to-day."

Mr. Hodges was then asked if he could be present at the meeting, and Mr. Garrett said:

"I am sure you would be welcome, but I don't think it would be necessary."

Mr. Hodges said he would be welcome.

WARD CAUCUSES.

The republican electors of the several wards of the city are requested to meet in caucus on Thursday evening, March 24th, at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of electing delegates to represent the wards in the county republican convention to be held at the court house on the 25th inst., to nominate a candidate for municipal judge. The several wards will be entitled to delegates as follows: First ward, 7; Second ward, 5; Third ward, 4; Fourth ward, 6; Fifth ward, 2.

The caucuses will be held at the following places: First ward—at the west side engine house. Second ward—at the east side engine house. Third ward—at the courthouse. Fourth ward—at the common council chamber. Fifth ward—at Dr. Q. O. Sutherland's office.

(By ORDER OF WARD COMMITTEES. Janesville, March 23d, 1887.

BRIEFLETS.

—The first spring shower at 7:30 this morning.

—The weather clerk's spring must have snapped.

—The weather probabilities are stormy followed by cold wave.

—The Rev. S. P. Wilder will be present at the Congregational prayer meeting this evening.

—The man that went to Europe for a course of mud baths was evidently unfamiliar with Lake Nicholson.

—The varoleid quarantine has been raised in this city and the health officer predicts no further trouble.

—J. H. Gateley's down town office is now under the First National bank, and is in charge of Mr. Frank Bestwick.

—Henry George is to lecture in Janesville. Hasn't some one better lasso him and keep him away from Rockford?

—Those interested in deciding who shall be the next municipal judge will not forget the caucuses this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

—J. H. Jones' grocery is now ornamented by three very hand-some signs, painted by Mr. Willard Coleman. Mr. Coleman's work is very well done.

—Albion three well known horsemen have applied to the agricultural society for permission to use the fair ground track for training purposes until the season opens.

—T. E. Addy has given the high school another very handsome cabinet of natural history specimens. It is even more extensive than the first and is thoroughly appreciated.

—Milwaukee and Main street business men seem to have forgotten all about Marshal Hogan's request to keep the watermark clear. This forgetfulness is thoroughly appreciated.

—An electro-magnet with power to resist a strain of two hundred pounds has been presented by Valentine Bros. to the high school. It will be used for experiments in natural science.

—The Janesville Prohibition Club held an interesting meeting last evening, the proceedings being participated in by a number of leading local prohibitionists. The Rev. L. P. Frost made the address of the evening.

—Manager Myers served a small number of patrons last night with "A Piece of Pie." It was in three slices, and as Peck's bad boy said, one slice was enough. Charles Guidy and Fanny Beane were the only redeeming features for the other characters were very poor.

—With tucks out of carpets and every thing ready for an exodus, the ladies at the Wayside Inn are waiting for a rise in the river. The organ and carpets will be the only things removed from the room, all of the other furniture being piled on the tables and left until the water goes down.

—Mrs. E. T. Foote received a cablegram from London this morning, announcing the death of her brother, Wm. M. Winans, which sad event occurred yesterday morning, after a brief illness. Mr. Winans was the oldest member of the family, and had been a resident of London for the past 30 years.

—On the first of next month G. Cogswell expects to enter more commodious quarters. He will take what is known as the New York Saving Store, carpenters being now at work fitting it up. Mr. Cogswell's business is growing and his fair dealing, courtesy and reliability have won him many friends.

—To-day B. B. Olds, of Clinton, was taken to the Mendota Insane Asylum by Sheriff Ward. Mr. Olds has only been deranged a few days, being in town and apparently perfectly sane Saturday. He was affected with softening of the brain about a year ago, however, and never fully recovered.

—The New York Tribune: "A prominent peach grower has come to the front. He asserts that we may expect peachies this summer. Plenty of peaches, peaches of fine flavor, large, well-developed peaches. This will be the general rule."

—William Gardner, Fenner Kimball, and E. G. Field go to Monroe this evening to appraise land for the Illinois Central extension.

—Mrs. W. W. Key, of Stoughton, and Mrs. Mattie Warner, of Kansas, are guests at the home of County Treasurer Miles.

POMEROY'S POROUS PLASTER.

It is universally endorsed wherever used. This verdict is supported by documentary evidence from thousands of intelligent people who have proved its excellency. Sold by druggists and by Prentiss & Evans, opposite postoffice.

Don't be haggled into buying a poor porous plaster. Ask for "Pomeroys' Porous Plaster." Prentiss & Evans, opposite postoffice.

Notice.

Rock County Pomeroys Garage will hold a special meeting Wednesday, March 26, 1887, at 7:30 o'clock, at Janesville Garage hall, at 10 o'clock p. m.

Open session all day. The subjects "Our Assessment Law" and "Our County Roads" will be discussed.

Let there be a big turn out. All farmers are interested in these subjects.

A. E. WILCOX, Master.

S. H. JUINER, Secretary.

THE WEATHER.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 34 degrees above zero. Cloudy, with south wind. At 1 o'clock p. m., the register was 32 degrees above zero. Light snow with north wind. For corresponding hours one year ago the register was 37 and 37 degrees above zero.

The Rev. Thos. Walker, pastor of the First M. E. church, at the home of the bride's parents, corner of High and Dodge streets, last evening at eight o'clock, pronounced the happy words which united Mr. Geo. D. Rogers and Miss Ella E. Grindall husband and wife. Both parties are employees in the cotton mill, and their many friends will wish them a long and prosperous life.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS.

Janesville Young People Rehearsing for the Meyer's House Stage.

There is in preparation something that Janesville will appreciate thoroughly. It comes under the head of amateur theatricals. Several charitable and enterprising ladies, wishing to pay the debts contracted by the Girls' Social Club decided upon this way as a good one to accomplish their end. They interested a number of the young people, and the entertainment, which will be on Tuesday evening, April 12th, is the result.

There will be two plays presented. The first is "A Sheep in Wolf's Clothing," and the scene is in England, time of King James. While in Europe Miss Minerva Guernsey saw it presented at an actor's benefit and suggested it to the ladies as a very suitable one for their purpose. The cast will be as follows:

Col. Percy Kirke.....Lead Doctor Lord Charnock.....Morris Becker Master of Ceremonies.....Dr. Chas. Clark General Flintoff.....W. C. Hamilton John Zepland.....J. L. C. Hart Anna Carew.....Miss Minerva Guernsey Dame Carew.....Mrs. G. Cogswell Sibyl.....Miss Helen Cogswell Keziah Mapleleaf.....Miss May Guernsey "Mega Diversion," another old English play that has been off the stage for many years, is the second. It is a comedy where sparkling passages abound. An old farmer's trouble with his daughter's love affairs forms the basis for a rather amusing scene. In this piece the cast is: Jeremiah Crow.....W. D. McKee Sir Aubrey.....Dr. M. A. Newman Jasper Pidgeon.....F. F. McKey Roland Pidgeon.....J. L. C. Hart Ester.....J. G. Reed Margaret Crow.....Miss Minnie Guernsey Widow Netwell.....Mrs. W. D. McKey

Everything is being done to make the presentation of the plays a success. There will be a full orchestra, fine costumes, and whatever else is needed—including a large audience.

JENKINS MAY'S.

That no one in town cares for a second "Piece of Pie."

That knomes is to partially take the place of soda water this year.

That the idea of young ladies' cooking clubs is in great favor.

That this spring is like one in a Waterybury watch—mighty uncertain.

That Janesville heavy swells view the divided skirt style of trousers with little favor.

That while Alunians was killed his postively lived and some of them live in Janesville to-day.

That every other so called porous plaster is an inferior article which cannot be compared with Alcock's.

That some of those who are declining prospective nominations mean what Carter Harrison did.

That several people in town who put faith in Chicago schemes to make money without risk now wish they hadn't.

That merchants who are too conservative to advertise wonder how their wide awake rivals create a boom when times are hard.

That a certain west end newspaper man thinks of Helen Blance whenever any body else's name is mentioned in connection with the Janesville postoffice.

COMING EVENTS.

—Ezra and his kids come next.

—Attend the republican caucuses in the several wards this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

—Janesville Commandery No. 2, Knights Templar, assemble in regular semi-monthly convocation this evening at Masonic hall.

—A regular meeting of the board of directors of the Loan, Savings and Building association will be held in the office of G. G. Sutherland Esq., at 7:30 p. m., Friday, March 25th, at which the money paid in Monday 21st will be turned over.

—An electro-magnet with power to resist a strain of two hundred pounds has been presented by Valentine Bros. to the high school. It will be used for experiments in natural science.

—The Janesville Prohibition Club held an interesting meeting last evening, the proceedings being participated in by a number of leading local prohibitionists. The Rev. L. P. Frost made the address of the evening.
